

Dear tenants,

The time has come, the end of your tenancy with us has come to an end. While some of you have already left, many of you will start packing next week. It has been our experience that while packing you often come across items you can't take with you. Things you want to throw away because they are no longer usable, but also things you might wish a second life with someone else.

To give you as many options as possible, we have arranged two kind of containers from Wednesday, January 24th through Friday, February 2nd that we want to inform you about.

The Green Office - In the general entrance hall of the Johanna and the Bisschoppen you will find carts from The Green Office. These carts are for placing things that you would like to give a second life. For example, pots, pans, cutlery, clothes hangers, books, etc. These items will be stored and offered to the new batch of ShortStay students who will arrive at the end of the summer. The Green office works with only volunteers who try very hard to organize this. Therefore, please make sure that the items you donate are clean, neat and of value. Broken items and items that are dirty may go in the bulky waste container, which we will tell you about in heading 2.

Bulky Waste Container - Bulky waste containers will be placed in the backside of the Johanna, in front of the Bisschoppen and by the Cambridgelaan parking lots. In the containers you may throw anything (except appliances with a battery) that you could not put in one of the previous 2 options. Please make sure that if you throw something in the bulky waste container, you walk the items all the way to the back so that others can get rid of their items as well.

We hope this gives you enough options to make a choice for the items you unfortunately can't take back home. Please make sure the unit is empty and clean when you leave and that you have turned in your keys.

Then all that remains is to wish you a safe trip back home or to your next destination.

Kind regards,
SSH
